

A Brigade Commander's Perspective on Cold Weather Operations

Brigadier Terje Bruøygaard
Commander Brigade North
Norwegian Army

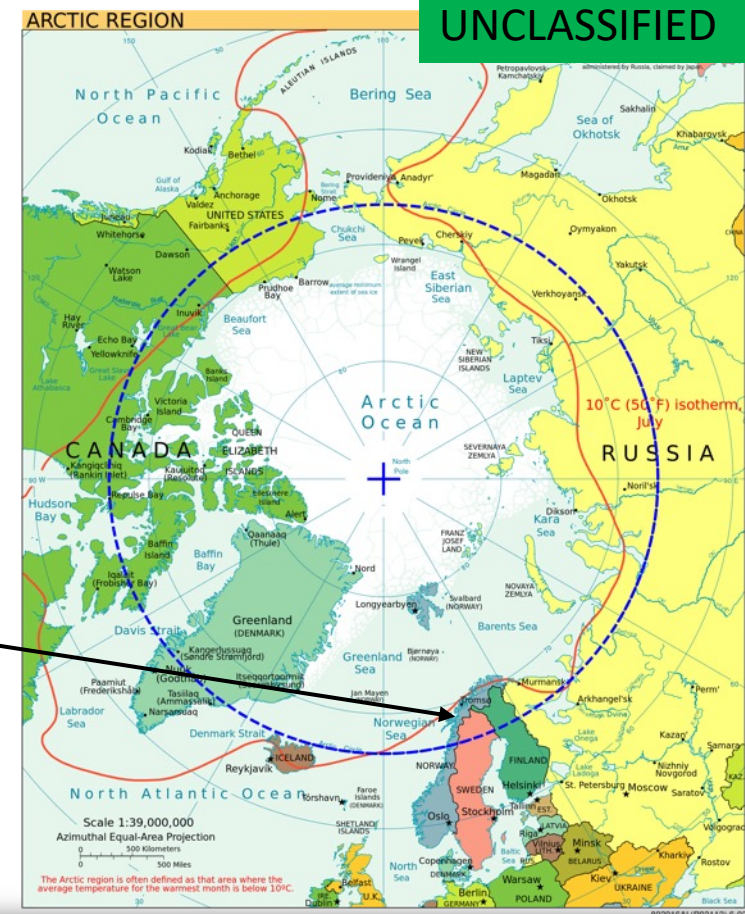

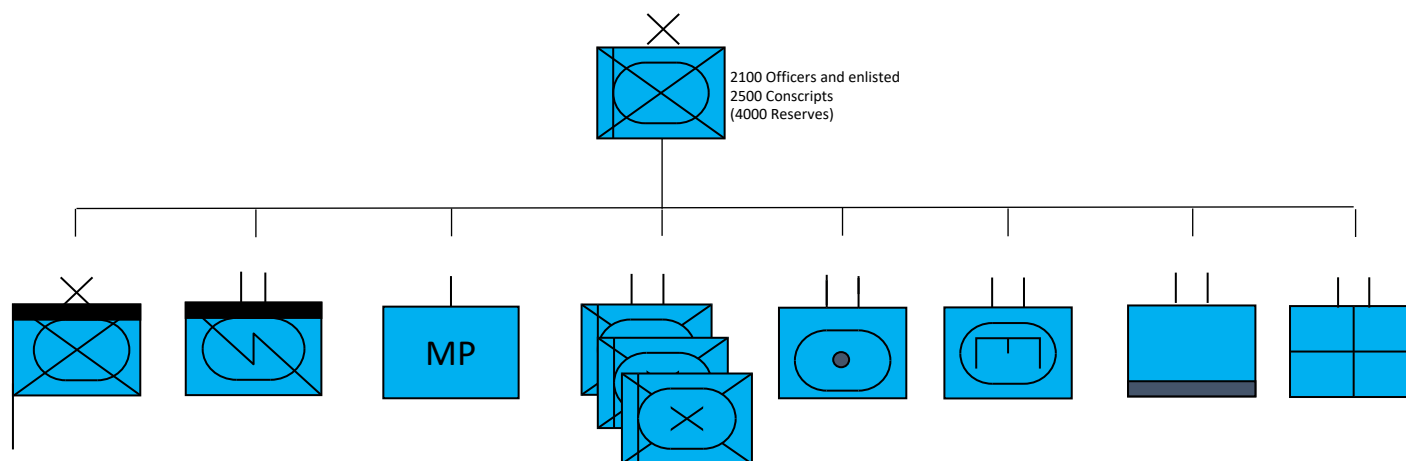

UNCLASSIFIED

Brigade North
NOR Army

Brigade North – who we are

Brigade North – our role

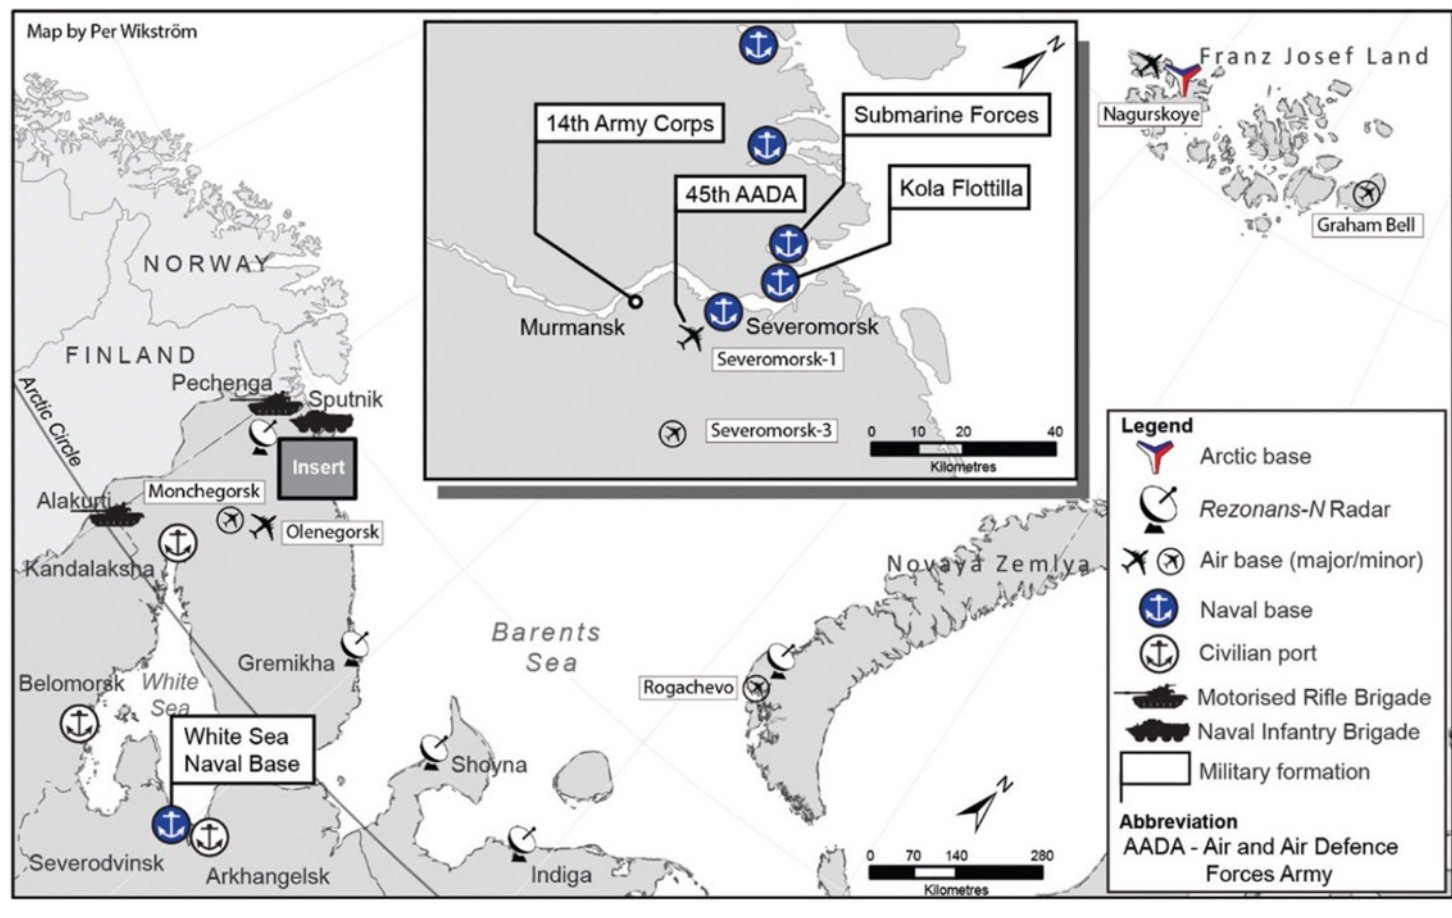

- “...protecting every inch of NATO territory...”
- ...deter
- ...defend
- ...restore
- Main threat: Russia
- Potentially contested area:
 - Cold and harsh environment
 - Maritime, Air, Land

Russian Forces

Capable? Better? Worse?

How we prepare in peace

- Live in our own battlespace
- Lifelong acclimatization
- Realistic training and exercises
- Allied integration

How we intend to fight

- Fighting in formations
- Combined Arms
- Joint and Multinational
- Use of terrain
- Early integration with allies
- Be brilliant in the basics
- Be lethal!

Brigade North
NOR Army

UNCLASSIFIED

Leaders:
Must lead more
Must plan better
Need more patience

Vehicles:
Break down
Consume more fuel
Have mobility issues

Friction
:The thing that makes the seemingly easy very hard

Units:
Need more time
More frequent resupply
Less combat effective

Individuals
Move slower
Perform lower
Demand more energy and rest

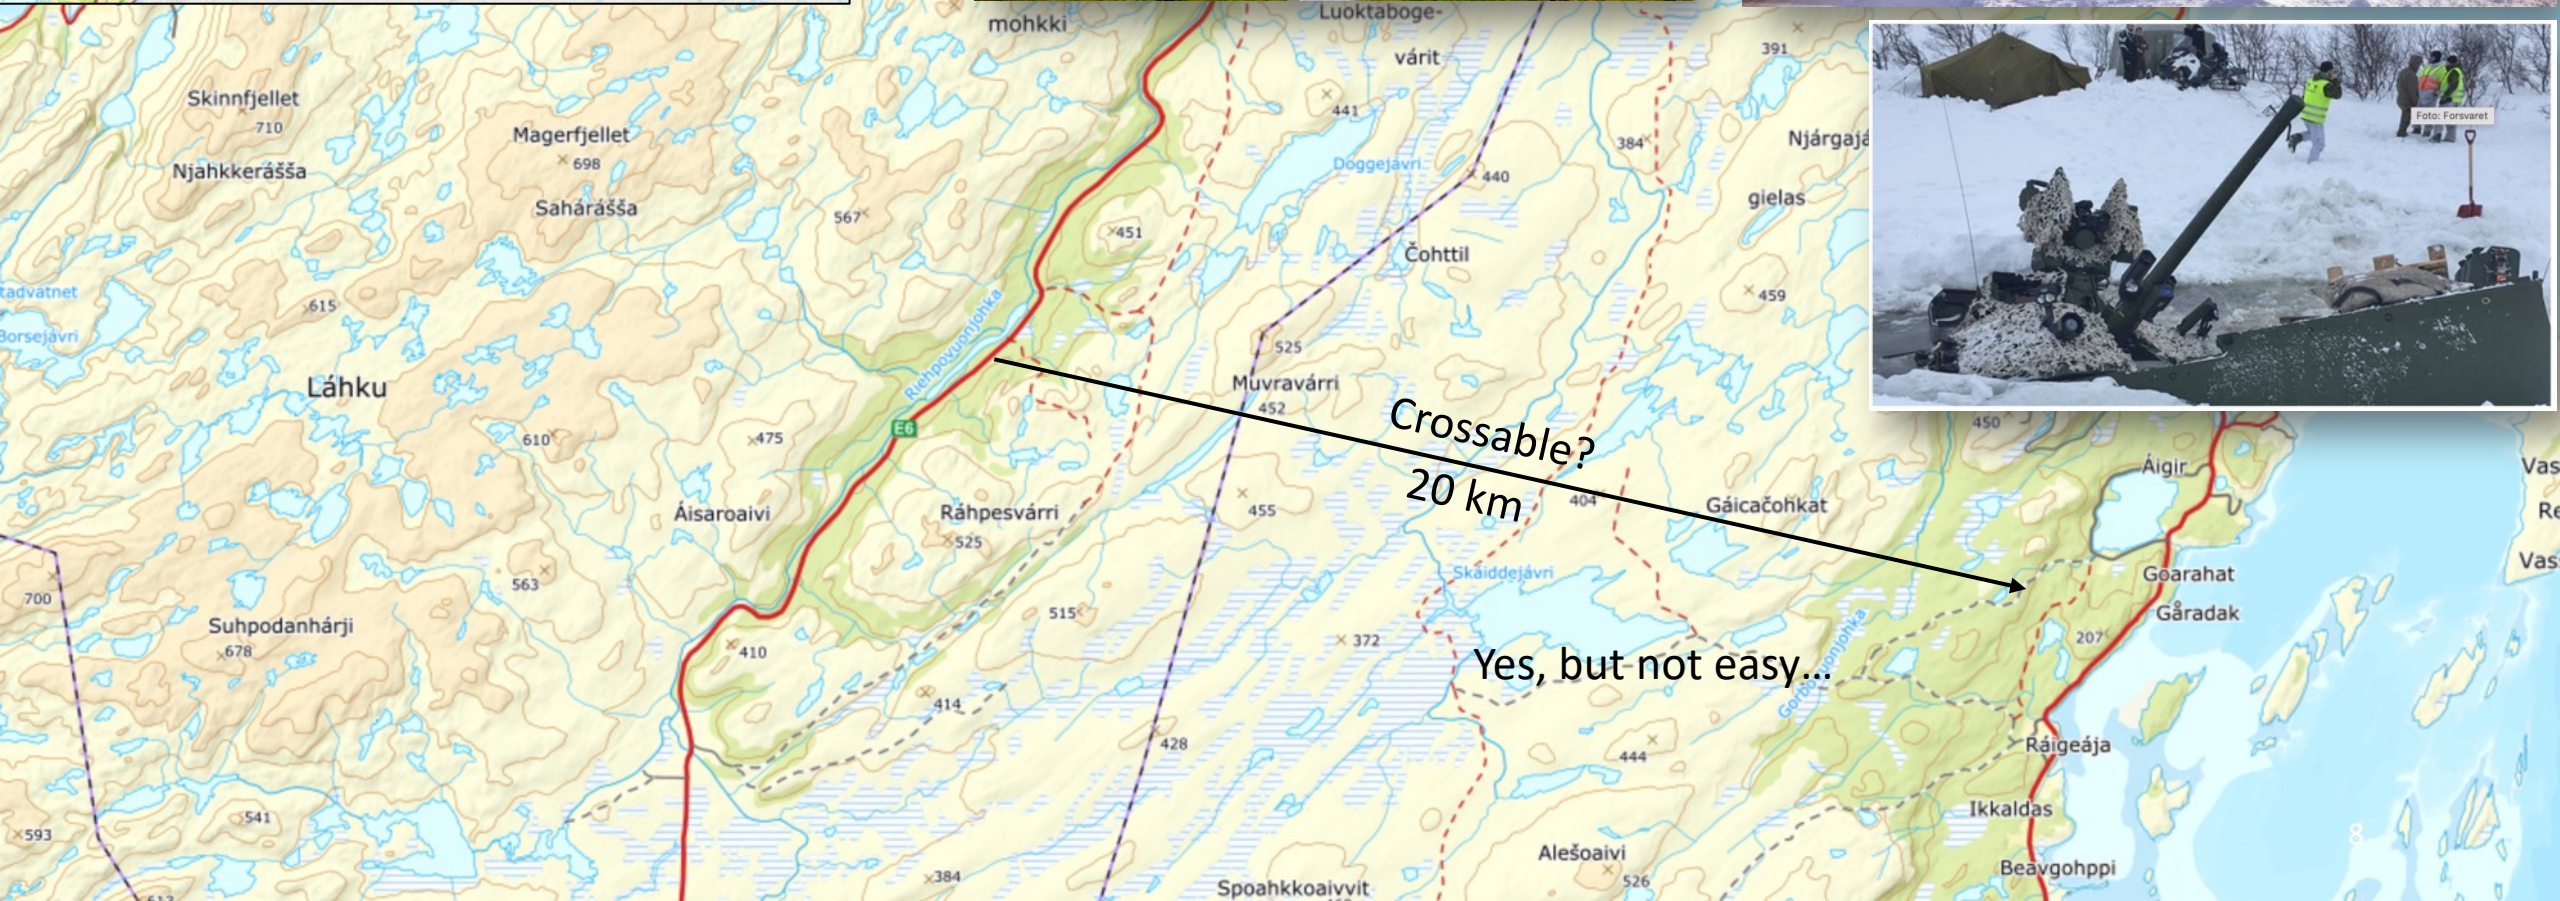

Brigade North
NOR Army

UNCLASSIFIED

Final comments

- Without heat and shelter you will die...
- Mastering the cold is not enough; we must be able to kill the enemy
- All hands requirements
- Winter pacifies, but nobody is afraid of doing what they master
- Major land wars are still fought by large maneuver forces
- Logistics, logistics, logistics
- To allies: we are here to help. Training together in peacetime gives us an edge!

Questions?